

Technical training and e-Learning

→ Your challenges

- You want ...
 - ... to make sure that your co-workers maintain a high level in their respective competences,
 - ... to train them in technical fields,
 - ... to prepare your engineers, technicians and clients so they can use and/or support your tools,
- Of course, not all of your co-workers are multilingual, nor do they necessarily have the time to follow courses,
- You are facing organisational changes and need to prepare your co-workers,
- You have heard about e-Learning, computer-based training (CBT) and web-based training (WBT) and would like to know how it could benefit your company,
- You would like to create a mindset towards good document practices in your company,
- Your training budget is limited.

→ We can help

- Courses take place on-site and off-site,
- They are given in a large variety of languages,
- We provide self- and e-Learning courses. These are delivered on CD-ROM, posted on Internet/Intranet and often come as a complement to more traditional courses,
- We develop tailor-made training by first studying your requirements thoroughly. Then, we create the structure and agree on the support media,
- For instance, we offer special courses for ...
 - ... the EMC | Documentum product family,
 - ... translation memory tools (e.g. across and SDL | Trados),
 - ... XML, authoring and information management tools (e.g. XMetaL and SCHEMA ST4).

Technical training and e-Learning

→ Your benefits

- We tailor courses to your specific requirements in terms of topic, tool and language,
- The flexibility of our trainers allows you to continue to focus on your core business while not stripping your company of the valuable presence of production-critical staff,
- Venturing into e-Learning, CBT or WBT can help you make substantial savings while allowing the trainees maximum liberty, and control over pace and contents,
- We improve results by offering training course support in a variety of formats: DTP, film scripts, flash animations, interactive tutorials,
- No other training company has our in-depth knowledge of Enterprise Content Management (ECM).
